

About the series

The Oldest Earthling series is planned as a trilogy.

In the first book, A Long, Long Trip on the Hope/Freedom, Tom and his parents leave Earth as part of a group of several thousand colonists bound for a new home in the stars. They spend most of their time hibernating but wake every decade or so to make sure everything is still working and the ship is still on course.

But Tom wakes and discovers that things have changed while he slept. His decade of hibernation has turned into hundreds of years, and the ship is populated by the descendants of some of the original colonists, who no longer have any memory of who built the ship or where it's going. Tom has to find a way to wake his parents and get the ship to its final destination, while somehow getting the attention of a cute girl he meets.

The book has a 5-star review average on Amazon, and a 4.5-star average on Goodreads. Local author Leah Rhyne praised it as “charming and funny, sweet and exciting.”

Mr. Favre began writing A Daring Rescue by Space Pirates shortly after the release of the first volume, in early 2017.

The third as-yet-untitled installment is planned for a release before the end of 2019.
